● This link is broken. The name of the target web server not found in DNS.
This often occurs when the destination site is no longer operating, or www. has been omitted from the front of the domain name. It can also be a transient issue if the local DNS cache server is temporarily unavailable.

● This link is broken. The page could not be found on the target web server.
 Fixing this depends on how the link became broken:

- The link has been mistyped and should be fixed
- The destination page has moved and the link should be updated
- The destination page no longer exists and the link should be removed
- A file has been accidentally deleted and should be replaced

Some web browsers try to fix common mistakes, so broken links may work in some browsers but not others. For example, a PDF link address like "www.example.com" works in Adobe Reader, but not in the Google Chrome PDF Reader (the link should be "http://www.example.com").

Accessibility

This section shows accessibility issues, indicating problems for older users, people with disabilities or accessibility needs. Automated testing cannot detect all accessibility issues, so should be used alongside human testing.

Level A

18 issues on 811 pages

● Absolute CSS positioning can make pages unreadable when style sheets are turned off.

Low vision users often switch off style sheets to make text easier to read. Absolute positioning can result in pages that display text out-of-order when style sheets are turned off.

● Figures and images in PDF documents should have non blank ALT text, except for decorative images which should be marked as artifacts.

Each image should have an ALT attribute describing the picture, which screen readers can read aloud. See PDF Techniques for WCAG: Text Alternatives. PDF graphics with missing ALT attributes causes problems in:

- JAWS 13 with Acrobat Reader XI: the word "graphic" is read at a random position in the reading order.

PDF graphics with ALT="" attributes causes problems in:

- JAWS 13 with Acrobat Reader XI: the word "graphic" is read along with a random number like "900 17".

● Identify row and column headers in data tables using th elements, and mark layout tables with role=presentation.

Data tables allow screen reader users to understand column and row relationships. Layout tables read cells as a series of unrelated paragraphs with no tabular structure. Without TH or ROLE, screen readers apply heuristics to decide whether a table is a layout table or data table. These heuristics vary greatly between screen readers, and are affected by browser being used, window size, and font size (so the outcome is very unpredictable without TH or ROLE). If a data table has headers marked up using TD, then change these to TH. If a data table has no headers, add TH elements describing each row and/or column. If the table is only used for layout add role='presentation' to the TABLE element. Impact on users:

- JAWS Reading: Treats tables without TH and ROLE as layout tables if the table contains cells above or below certain pixel sizes. This measurement is affected by browser window size, browser font size, and the browser used.
- NVDA Reading: Applies a 'layout table' heuristic to tables without TH and ROLE which varies depending on the browser used and on the window size in some circumstances.
- VoiceOver Reading: Uses a sophisticated heuristic on tables without TH and ROLE, which is similar (but not identical) to the heuristic used by NVDA with Firefox.

Avoid specifying a new window as the target of a link with target=_blank.

Displaying new windows without warning can be very confusing to non-sighted and mobile users. Some screen readers and mobile devices give very little indication a new tab or window has opened. If you cannot avoid displaying a new window, insert a warning into the link text like the following: "opens in a new window".

Some users find it hard to read light gray text on a white background, dark gray text on a black background and white text on a red background. Note: The default link color in IE11 has poor contrast on a white background. Fix by specifying a:link and a:visited colors in CSS.

- The contrast ratio should be 4.5 or more for 18 point text, or larger
- The contrast ratio should be 4.5 or more for 14 point bold text, or larger
- The contrast ratio should be 7.0 or more for all other text

Link uses general text like 'Click Here' which doesn't explain link purpose.

Screen reader users often tab from one link to the next, or use the 'Next Link' command. Moving between links labelled 'click here' sounds like 'Click here, tab, click here, tab, click here'. Change the link text, or add an aria-label, so the link makes sense when read without the surrounding text. Additional link text added with the TITLE attribute doesn't work in:

- NVDA 2018.4 with IE11 (the link title isn't read when tabbing)
- NVDA 2016.3 with IE11 (the link title isn't read when tabbing)
- NVDA 2016.2 with IE11 (the link title isn't read when tabbing)

 Omitting img width or height attributes means page text jumps about as images load.

This makes the page very hard to read while it's loading, and the user may click on the wrong link if it moves as it's being clicked. Add width and height attributes to the img tag matching the image dimensions. Authoring tools like Dreamweaver can automate this process.

Use text links rather than image links. In general, text links are more easily recognized as clickable.

Text links usually download faster, are preferred by users, and should change colors after being selected. It is usually easier to convey a link's destination in text, rather than with the use of an image. Users often find it hard to tell which images are clickable without moving the cursor over them ('minesweeping'). Another benefit to using text links is that users with text-only and deactivated graphical browsers can see the navigation options.

Guideline: Usability.gov 11:5

Use italic text sparingly - for one or two words or a short phrase.

Keep runs of styled text to less than 70 characters. When used well, styled text draws attention to important words, but also decreases reading speed by almost twenty percent.

https://www.wyevalley.nhs.uk/visitors-and-patients/county-hospital-\(acute\)/a-z-departments/ophthalmology.aspx/a-z-departments/ophthalmology.aspx) line 988

Guideline: Usability.gov 11:10

Use link text between 3 and 100 characters so it's long enough to be understood, but avoids line wrapping.

A single word text link may not give enough information about the link's destination. A link that is a full sentence is difficult to read quickly, particularly if it wraps to another line.
